Brownies Kalashnikovs Womans American Wartime Book Preview

Fadia, a Saudi Arab, grew up in the strictly circumscribed and tailor-made "desert Disneyland"™ of Aramco (the Arabian American Oil Company). This slice of modern, suburban, middle America was located in Dhahran, Aramco's administrative headquarters in Saudi Arabia, a theocratic Muslim kingdom run according to strict Wahhabi Sharia™ law.

Eventually, after only brief holidays abroad visiting relatives in colorful Arab cities like Medina, Damascus and Alexandria, Fadia moved to Beirut, the glitzy "Paris of the Middle East", to attend high school. In Beirut she fell in love with a passionate and idealistic Lebanese journalist with whom she eloped against her parents' wishes, subsequently getting caught up in Lebanon's fifteen-year civil war while raising a family of five children.

Providing a fascinating account of a Saudi woman's painful journey from naïve Arab girl to life as a resident of a war-torn capital city, this book provides new insight into two very different Middle Eastern worlds about which so little is known by those living outside the region.
